INTRODUCTION

ASK T&L is a development consulting organization dedicated to advancing socio-economic development for marginalized communities. With over 25 years of experience, ASK T&L has collaborated with national and international brands, companies, industrial establishments, and their supply chains, as well as with international institutions, worker communities, NGOs, and other stakeholders to address labor, supply chain, and workplace issues. ASK T&L supports business supply chain actors and civil society organizations in developing, refining, and strengthening robust strategies, approaches, systems, and mechanisms.

We conduct user-focused studies to build knowledge and inform development programs with credible data and analysis. These comprehensive studies cover issues specific to programs, project areas, and organizations, serving as the basis for key decisions on interventions, capacity building, program development, and resource allocation.

ASK T&L's team includes skilled professionals with extensive experience in a wide range of research and studies on varied themes, such as gender, water, WASH, skill development, agriculture, livelihood, child rights and youth, protection, education, health, community development, and employability.

OUR APPROACH

Tailored approach to explore specific issues

Use of mixed methods to generate credible information and conclusions

Guided by professional data compilation and analysis tools and skills

Community-focused with special emphasis on gender and inclusivity

Led by dedicated, experienced, and skilled research professionals

Maintaining strict ethical protocols

OUR EXPERTISE

Baseline Studies

ASK T&L conducts baseline studies to assess the current situation in a project area or among target groups, identifying the most critical indicators for the project to focus on and the areas where change is needed.

Need Assessment & Situational Analysis

We also conduct need assessments and situational analyses to gather the information and data required for planning programs and initiatives with a community, population, or organization.

Thematic Studies

Focused on specific social or development themes or issues, we conduct thematic studies that examine various aspects related to subjects such as education, gender, healthcare, livelihood, child rights, human trafficking, water, and sanitation in depth.

Mid-Term and Endline Studies

These assessments not only measure the progress made by comparing the information with baseline and midline data but also provide recommendations for adjustments or improvements to enhance the effectiveness and efficiency of the project.

TRAINING AND LEARNING

Involving all stakeholders and using participatory tools and methodologies are central to our approach.
